

Internexia

offers the Cambridge BULATS English Language tests known as Business BULATS

Internexia is an agent for the Business Language Testing Service (BULATS) of Cambridge ESOL, which is a division of Cambridge Assessment (previously the University of Cambridge Local Examinations Syndicate, UCLES).

The Business Language Testing Service is a computer-based English language assessment. BULATS is a reliable way of assessing the English language proficiency of employees or trainees. Internexia also provides tests of written and spoken English.

BULATS provides:

- relevant, useful and reliable language tests in work contexts
- test administration to suit the client's individual requirements
- rapid turn around of test results
- information to help with the interpretation of test results
- advice to companies on appropriate strategies for language testing, assessing language needs and language training.

BULATS is important for:

- screening as part of a recruitment or induction programme
- assessing an individual's career potential
- generating and monitoring the language profile of an entire organization
- targeting language training more effectively
- evaluating the effectiveness of on-going language training

The Computer Test assesses ability in listening, reading, grammar and vocabulary. As part of the broader service, additional tests which assess speaking and writing skills, can also be taken.

Internexia can also deliver Internexia's own English Language test that is structured and meets the BULATS standard. Please contact us for further information on our testing services.
